

The Alternative Resistance Trail

As you'll have seen, this website provides information about and links to Guernsey and Jersey's resistance trails. Guernsey's has yet to go live at the time of writing.

The resistance trails picked just a few among many sites of resistance in the Channel Islands, but there are plenty more. Some exist only in family stories, passed down through the generations.

As an exercise, pin a large map of your Island on the wall and ask students to research stories or glean family stories to create a resistance trail based on stories in your class or your school that families were involved in during the Occupation.

This exercise will enable a school-specific or class-specific trail. Why not link up with other classes or other schools to create the best trail?

Feel free to send your winning entries to the Frank Falla Archive for us to show online!